The Library Election.

MR. Epiron: - I have watched the progress of our Library Association from its organization with much interest, and have - an earnest desire to see it prosper. I am clearly of the opinion that every stockholder who properly regards its interest will agree with me, that the measure best calculated to promote its present welfare is the re-election of the old Board of Directors.

They ought to be re-elected, because they have proved themselves the most efficient Board the Association has ever had. It is the only Board that has not left it largely in debt. It is the only Board that has been diligent in collecting the instalments and dues from the stockholders. It is the only Board that has ever made the lecture system a success-a source of useful entertainment to the community, and of pecuniary proffit to the Association. It is the only Board since the organization that has materially increased the number of stockholders. During its administration the annual revenues of the Association have been largely increased. Very valuable donations to the Library and Reading Room have been made solely through the activity and enterprise of the present Board.

The President has shown a commendable zeal and deep interest in behalf of the Association, which, if followed by all the stockholders, would make this the first Li brary institution in the State. All the officers have been very faithful in the discharge of their duties. The Board volumtarily suggested to the stockholders a change in the constitution in regard to elections, by which their term was shortened six months. Notwithstanding I highly respect the "Independent Ticket," and under other circumstances would be pleased to give it support, yet, weighing all these things fully, it seems to me imperatively the duty of the stockholders, to indorse the Board in the prosperous course which they have pursued, and show them, by a large majority vote tonight, that we appreciate their past services, and are willing to entrust the affairs of the Association to their management for anoth- strated, and they will not besisate to give it their stockholder that it is his duty, as an intel- seen in this medicine that are annually sold in ligent citizen, to be present at the election every section of the land. It is now recognized as to-night. If this useful and creditable institution is to prosper at all, it will and must be by the sympathy and presence of all fovers that arise from decangement of these porthose who are interested in the prosperity, I tions of the system. Hostetter's name is rapidly not only of the Library Association, but the M. W. F. fair fame of our city.

Evansville Library Ameriation. Mr. Entron :- Iam glad to find that the suggestion of the Board of Directors, in their late report to the stockholders of the Library Association, have been acted upon, and that two open and published tickets are presented for suppost at the coming election. This is as it should be, and the result, let who will be elected, must be beneficial to the interests of the Association. It is indispensable to its prosperity that the stockholders should show some zeal in its behalf; and so long as a majority of them remain | that they think medicine cannot help them; let apathetic, and take no part in seeing to its management, so long is there danger of inattention on the part of those who, by a nominal election (by the votes of a small minority of the stockholders), may be chosen to conduct its affairs. There must be action and life in the stockholders, to secure energetic action in the Board of Directors.

Let the stockholders then turn out to the election, and vote for one or the other of the tiskets. Either is good enough if stimulated to action by an earnest election. If the institution is worth preserving, let no one, who desires its success, stay at home when managers are to be chosen. His personal presence and vote are wanted-not a delegated power to another to represent

A man who will not take the trouble to attend an election, when he can conveniently do so, can feel no vital interest in it and ought not to place his vote at the discretion of another; and it is to be hoped that the use of proxies will be abandoned by common consent, except in cases of sickness or necessary absence from the city. The real friends of the institution will then control it, for a man can hardly be called a real friend to it who will not, if in town and Palpit Reproof.

Dr. Milburn, in his work entitled "The Riffe, Axe, and Saddlebags," relates the following good anecdote of Gov. White, of Tennessee, showing how sinners were reproved by the preachers fifty years ugo:

Mr. James ---, or "Old Jimmy," as he was familiarly called by his friends, was a preacher possessed of a good many peculiarities-in a word, he was what is termed an oddity. In eastern Tennessee, two preachers usually attended meeting, and it is customary to hear what both parties have to say, so that if one drives a nail during the sermon, the other clenches it by way of exhortation. Accordingly, on a certain occasion, when the sermon was over, "Old Jimmy" commenced his exhortation by remarking that it was well to rebuke the vicious and reprove vice whenever it is met with, but more especially in the Sanctuary. "Now," he continued, "if that man that sits back near the door, and who left the room while brother ---- was preaching, and staid out just long enough to suit himself, and got his boots full of mad and then come in again, thinks I mean him, he is Sanday or election days; shall not sell quite mistaken, as I do not; or if that man adulterated liquors; shall not sell to intoxiwho sits on the front bench, and who looks as fresh as if he had not slept for a month, but who indulged in a good nap during the sermon, thinks 1 mean him, he is equally mistaken,-for if that young woman who sits there before me, and on whom I have my eye, dressed out inher trinkets and gewgaws, with her flowers inside and outside of | noting with the man who has no license at | sists of Slabs of all sizes, from I to 16 Inches thick, there as such, let them have by all means a her bonnet (and indeed it is a shame for paents to allow, he said, their daughters to indulge in such vanity), thinks I mean her, she, too, is mistaken." Thus he went through the entire congregation, rebuking such as deserved it. Meanwhile White was all this time sitting on the end of a seat, rolling about, rubbing his hands in high glee at the rebuffs administered to each chewing tobacco and spitting around in all | non, that will load, aim, fire and swab itself directions, smiling and enjoying the hard rubs, when "Old Jimmy" said: "Well I suppose you are all anxious to know who this individual I am alluding to is; 'tis that dirty, nasty, tobacco-chewing fellow, sitting there with a perfect deluge of spit around him-and only think that the dresses of the sisters must be dragged through it." White declares he never chewed since.

THE SUNDAY CLAUSE OF THE LICENSE LAW. -The New Albany Tribune thinks the question of selling liquor on Sunday under the license law a very simple one. In consideration of the sum of fifty dollars, the State of Indiana proposes to grant to any person of "good moral character," a license to sell liquor under certain restrictions. Among these restrictions are the following: The person licensed shall not sell liquor on cated persons, &c. Any one selling without a license is liable to fine and imprisonment, A person, therefore, who sells on Sunday, is liable to be punished under the provisions of the law against selling without license He has no license to sell on Sunday, and upon that day stands upon precisely the same

THRESHING MACHINES

Worthy of Attention!

Patented July 27, 1858. This Machine is pronounced by competent judge to be superior to all others before the public, for general family use, and what will doubtless surprise and rejoice many a woman's heart, is, that while for ordinary usage it surpasses in practical ntility the highest priced machines, the cost of it will not exceed thirty-five dollars.

The subscriber having purchased the exclusive right to manufacture, sell, and use this machine in s and other counties of South-western Indiana, respectfully invites all persons, Ladies especially who are in want of a first class Sewing Machine o call and examine the merits of the Moore's Pat ent, being confident that on a thorough acquaint since with it, they will prefer this toalf others free pective of its price.

The following is a summary of some of the leading excellencies of this machine: 1. It combines durability, simplicity, and prac-ticability in a higher degree than any other now in its stitch is not excelled by any machine yet invented. Each stitch is locked or fistened by the ma chine itself, so that there is no need of drawing the thread through a loop or using a needle to fasten the end of a seam to prevent its raveling or ripping. Such is the nature of the stitch that if every third one be cut, the work will neither rip nor ravel. It sews from two common spools without rewinding, and sews in the very best manner, coars and fine goods with linen, cotton, or silk thread. 4. It has the best and most reliable feed ever onstructed, and does not break needles. •

5. The space around the needle and beneath the e arm is unusually large, and what is cope cally noticeable, not a drop of oil is needed on the part of the machine, in contact with the goods 6. Its simplicity is such that it can be understood and operated with but little instruction, and is so cheap beautiful, and useful that no family can well afford to be without one, therefore come right along, see for yourself, and if you like the machine. make one your own without delay, and my word for it, after a few days' usage it will be the last arwith for what it cost.
